Terms of Reference for Consultant Trainer(s): Leading Agribusiness for Success - a Training of Women Agribusiness Owners

On 28th October in Cape Town South Africa

1. Background and Rationale

Women play a major role in agriculture, as farmers, labourers and entrepreneurs, making up to 70% of the agricultural workforce. Yet, they continue to face challenges with regards to access to land, access to appropriate finance, access to markets and improved practices and technological advancements. Recent studies have shown that if women had equal access as men to agricultural production resources, their productivity will increase by between 20-30%, with anticipated increase in agricultural GDP by 2.5%.

Women are largely concentrated in the production segment of the agricultural value chains, very few are engaged in the business end of agricultural chains. Even when they engage, as a few do, their businesses remain small, largely informal, and mostly sell similar agricultural commodities, where excess supply drives down prices and profits.

A small group of women are however changing this paradigm, by engaging in medium and large-scale agricultural businesses, either off taking large commodities of agricultural products or engaging in processing businesses. These women are increasingly making inroads to the business end of agricultural chains, trading in national, regional and global markets, making substantial income opportunities not only for themselves and their families; but also, for other smaller agricultural businesses.

Studies indicate that addressing some of the constraints to women’s empowerment in agriculture have greater returns on investments, for the family, economy and society.

2. About CTA and the #VALUE4HER Programme

The Technical Centre for Agricultural and Rural Cooperation (CTA) promotes the empowerment of women in agriculture, through their increased participation in commercial and value-added agribusinesses, as a key strategy to transform agricultural productivity and prosperity of families and society at large. To this end, CTA recently launched, #VALUE4HER - a program initiative that seeks to strengthen women-led agribusiness enterprises in Africa, the Caribbean and Pacific (ACP). The programme is being implemented in partnership with African Women Agribusiness Network (AWAN) and African Women Innovation & Entrepreneurship Forum (AWIEF).
The overall objective of #VALUE4HER programme is to enhance value for women from agribusinesses through:

- Access to high value regional and global markets;
- Improved leadership skills and capacity of women agribusiness leaders;
- Increased advocacy and knowledge networking (including digital networking) to unlock market entry barriers for women in agribusiness.

In support of women agribusinesses, CTA recently launched VALUE4HERConnect, Africa's first women in agribusiness intelligence service, aimed at creating a digital network of women agripreneurs in Africa, to enhance information flow within their networks, to facilitate business to business linkages and facilitate relationships with agricultural market actors, supply chains and other service providers, including investment and financing partners.

A key result of the programme #VALUE4HER is improving the leadership capacity of women business leaders/owners so that they can facilitate growth of their businesses on several fronts. In this regard, CTA in collaboration with its regional partners AWAN AFRIKA and AWIEF plan to host a training workshop themed “Women Leading Agribusinesses for Success”. This one-day training is scheduled to take place on 28th October 2019, in Cape Town, South Africa, as a pre-conference activity of AWIEF conference 2019.

3. Objective

The objective of the training is to equip women business leaders, so that they can attain the technical and managerial skills, and personal attributes, needed to lead agribusinesses for successes, in a growing, competitive and gendered environment. Specifically, the training will equip women to:

- Manage a growing agribusiness- including preparing for and leading new market entry; prepare for and lead financial capital acquisition and management; managing stock and inventory, managing human resources, managing marketing and socio media campaigns. Fulfiling legal and tax compliance requirements amongst others.
- To boost their personal skills and confidence to lead presentations and negotiations for their businesses.

4. Terms of Reference for Consultant Trainer

CTA and its partners is therefore seeking to identify the services of a Consultant Trainer who will be responsible for: (i) conducting a training needs assessment; and based on these needs (ii) develop a training module; (iii) deliver the training at the above stated conference; (iv) develop a follow-up coaching session and (v) offer support as per the agreed coaching schedule.
